In 1697 Willem De Vlamingh (there are alternate spellings of this name) named the Swan River after the large flocks of black swans which inhabited the area. The original name was actually 'Swartte Swaane Drift' (Black Swan River). Francis-Antoine Boniface Heirisson was the first person to draw a detailed map of the river in 1801 and Heirisson Island - where the causeway crosses) was named ...

Many theories exist regarding the unique nature of the flora and fauna on the Galapagos islands. A popularly held belief is that the original species that evolved into the unique Galapagos variety found their way to the islands on flotation rafts of vegetation and other waste and were carried to the island via wind and sea currents.

"Did they build it with a crane? Did they build it with a plane?" There's a reason such a question would be asked about a private home located between Talkeetna and Willow (as it has been in this Reddit thread): it looks like something straight out of Dr. Seuss. After all, it's a house with a 185-foot-tall skinny tower that looks like layers of a wedding cake.
